Elegant Defense

Heather Thompson

Indiana University of Pennsylvania

Follow this and additional works at: https://knowledge.library.iup.edu/etd

Recommended Citation
https://knowledge.library.iup.edu/etd/1179

This Thesis is brought to you for free and open access by Knowledge Repository @ IUP. It has been accepted for inclusion in Theses and Dissertations (All) by an authorized administrator of Knowledge Repository @ IUP. For more information, please contact sara.parme@iup.edu.
STUDENT HAS RESTRICTED ACCESS TO FULL TEXT OF THE DISSERTATION.

ONLY COVER PAGES AND ABSTRACT ARE AVAILABLE AT THIS TIME
ELEGANT DEFENSE

A Thesis
Submitted to the School of Graduate Studies and Research in Partial Fulfillment of the Requirements for the Degree
Master of Fine Arts

Heather Thompson
Indiana University of Pennsylvania
May 2013
We hereby approve the thesis of

Heather Thompson

Candidate for the degree of Master of Fine Arts

____4/15/2013______ Signatures on File_____________________
Lynda LaRoche, M.F.A.
Associate Professor, Jewelry and Metals, Advisor

____4/15/2013______ Signatures on File_____________________
Dr. Jim Nestor, D.A.
Professor Emeritus of Art

____4/15/2013______ Signatures on File_____________________
Dr. Brenda Mitchell, Ph.D.
Associate Professor, Art History

ACCEPTED

____Signature on File_____________________
Timothy P. Mack, Ph.D.
Dean
School of Graduate Studies and Research
My thesis exhibition, Elegant Defense, researches the human need to protect our unconscious emotions by creating physical barriers through the use of body adornment. The exhibition focuses on emotional defenses that people unconsciously create as protective devices. When confronted, the viewers and/or the wearers of such adornments become conscious of their own barriers. This interaction becomes relevant for the viewer on both a visual and emotional level. Concentrating on its wearability as it reflects the variability of the human psyche through the use of materiality; the jewelry engages both the viewer and the wearer in exploring humanity’s unconscious desire to protect what must remain hidden in our psyches. While examining the wearability of jewelry and questioning the traditions, the jewelry of Marjorie Schick, Rachelle Thiewes and Sharon Church support the importance of scale, identity, and the interaction of jewelry as site specific to the body in my work.